New Year,
New Closet

By: Jenn McDougall
TD Staff Writer

Do you avoid the closet in your home as much as possible? You may steer clear of it until it is absolutely necessary to get something from it or put something away in it, then take care of business quickly so you do not have to look at the mess anymore. You can take on your closet and win!

Meet Someone New in 2011! Top Cities for Singles!

If one of your New Year's resolutions is to meet someone with whom you can enjoy a long-term relationship, what steps will you take to fulfill that resolution? Will you go out more? Will you join a book club? Will you agree to allow your friends to set you up on dates? Will you subscribe to an online dating service? Meeting that special someone can be much easier in some cities than others. Obviously, it can be far more difficult to find the person of your dreams if your city is home to very few single people. TD Customer Feedback

I've moved more than once with help from Tenants Direct. I've found their knowledge invaluable. More than anything it saves me time to be able to ask all these questions to a person that knows the answers and options. Considering my line of work, time is the key here... well money too.

They certainly know how to help me save money. The services and connections that they offer go WAY beyond moving the physical items from place to place. They helped me get settled. I recommend just giving them a call. You'll know immediately that you're in good hands. It will save you a great deal of effort and won't cost you a THING!
